Dec. 4 (Bloomberg) -- VeriFone Holdings Inc., the biggest maker of electronic-payment equipment, was raised to ``buy'' at Clal Finance Batucha Investment Management Ltd. a day after VeriFone said accounting errors erased four-fifths of pretax profit for the nine months through July 31.

VeriFone was raised from ``underperform'' and its target price cut to $31 from $42 by Clal analyst Tsahi Avraham. The company announced the errors yesterday, sparking a record 46 percent slide in the stock that wiped $1.79 billion off VeriFone's market value in U.S. trading.

The slide made VeriFone ``attractive, with all the risks,'' Avraham said in an e-mailed report today.

VeriFone gained as much as 8.1 percent to 107 shekels, trading at 105.40 shekels as of 12:14 p.m. in Tel Aviv.
